WEEK'S SALES.

Prices on Hopkinsville Market Prove Quite Satisfactory.

No Fine Leaf Sold, but Lugs and Low Leaf all Right.

Prices this week on the tobacco market were fully up to those last week and while no very fine goods were offered, lugs and low leaf went off in a very satisfactory manner. Sales for the week amounted to about 50 hogsheads and offerings were only slightly in excess, rejections being few.

Receipts are increasing and will continue to do so until the week has all been moved. Receipts for the week amounted to about 200 hogsheads and for the new tobacco year 1090 hogsheads.

No fine leaf has yet made its appearance on the market, but when it does the demand is expected to be brisk and some real good prices may be quoted for this class of the weed.

Nothing new to report in the loose market.

ADDISON CAMMACK DEAD.

Made More Money Speculating in Wall Street Than Jay Gould.

New York, Feb. 5.—Addison Cammack, one of the ablest and most successful speculators who ever entered Wall street, died this morning. He had been ill since November. The immediate cause of death was kidney trouble and heart failure. Until his retirement, four years ago, when he sold his stock exchange seat for $18,000, Mr. Cammack was so bold in his ventures on the bear side of the market that he became known to his fellow-speculators as "Ursa major." He was an indefatigable operator, and would often lose sleep, meals and exercise whenever a big deal was to be made. He was on terms of intimacy with Commodore Vanderbilt, his son, William K. Vanderbilt, and Jay Gould, and had the reputation of having earned more money in Wall street in a purely speculative way than any of them.

Mr. Cammack was born in Hopkinsville, Ky., in 1827. As a youth he went to New Orleans and ultimately became a member of J. P. Whitney & Co., then the largest ship brokers in that city. In 1863 he made much money for the firm by passing through the civil war blockade.

He subsequently went to London, where he speculated in cotton. Coming to this city 1896, he entered into partnership with J. W. George in the wholesale liquor business. Mr. Cammack retired from the firm two years later and speculated in cotton on his own account until 1910. From that time he was a great speculator.

"THE GREAT LYNCH"

Will Appear Here During Engagement Gus Sun's Minstrels.

Perhaps the most wonderful and astonishing high wire act in America to-day is that of John Lynch, professionally known as "The Great Lynch," who will appear here Feb. 13 with The Gus Sun American Minstrels. Mr. Lynch performs on a thread-like wire with as much ease and safety as most people would walk a 12-inch plank. He disrobes on a ladder standing on the wire, walks the wire as a hammock, swinging eight to ten feet, and, most astonishing of all, turns a complete summersault on a high wire no larger than a small lead pencil. The act is truly nothing short of marvelous.

CRUSHED TO DEATH.

Horrible Fate Of Walker Anderson Near Pembroke.

Walker Anderson, aged 18 years, a son of the late John Anderson and a step-son of Mr. William Wolfe, of near Pembroke, was killed Monday afternoon. He and a companion were chopping in the woods. He was caught under the limbs and his back and shoulders horribly crushed.

Eagle Carried Baby Half a Mile.

Denver, Feb. 2.—Tony Giovanni, two years old, was sized and carried off by an immense gray eagle today while the child was in the yard of his home in a Denver suburb. The child's screams brought the father and two other men to the door in time to see the bird and child disappear over the bluff of the Platte river.

The men gave chase and saw the eagle alight on a small island covered with underbrush, half a mile from the child's home. When the men arrived at the island, the bird attempted to rise with the boy, but his clothing caught in a brush, and the eagle, seeing the men close at hand with clubs, dropped his prey and flew away. The boy is not badly hurt.
